HEMEROCALLIS (DAYLILY)

PLANTING TIME, FALL AND SPRING

The Hemerocallis is a very satisfactory perennial, their Lily-like flowers are of wonderful coloring, from the palest yellow to the deepest golden orange, pink, yellow, mahogany and the deepest wine color. They grow from four to six feet tall, and are very hardy; grow in nearly every soil, in sun and part shade, produce a large number of flowers like Lilies, all summer to late fall. No perennial grows as easily as the Hemerocallis.

This list is of the new hybrids and they are a great improvement over the older varieties.

MONTBRETIAS

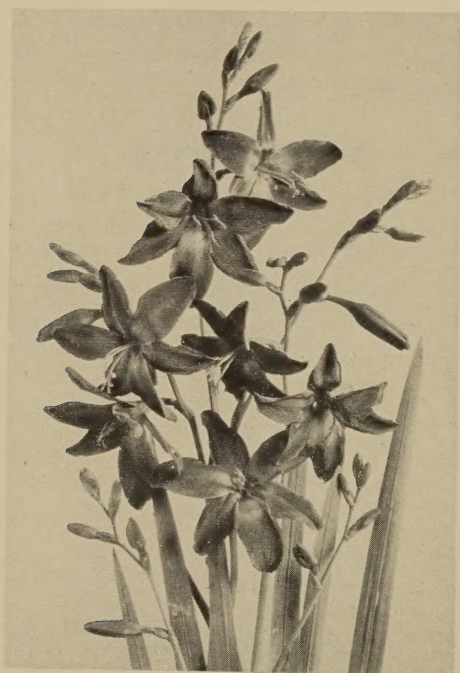

PLANTING — SPRING

Very decorative hardy bulbous plants of elegant growth, producing freely in August, September and October, graceful spikes of gorgeously colored flowers of the greatest value for cutting, lasting long in water and mixing well with all kinds of foliage. They grow freely in any ordinary flower border, but prefer a sunny situation. As pot plants they are very attractive. They can be planted from early until late in spring. They multiply fast, but if left over winter they should have a little mulching. They should be planted 4 to 6 inches apart and three inches deep in nearly any kind of well drained soil. 250 at 1000; 25 at 100 rate.

NEW EARLHAM VARIETIES

These are the magnificent NEW MONTBRETIAS which have attained so much attention for some years past at the R. H. S. Show in late summer and during autumn. They are a great advance on most of the older varieties, being generally taller and most robust in growth, while the flowers are of greater size and beauty, some of them measuring 3 or 4 inches in diameter. They make first class border plants, and are of great decorative value for cutting.
